DEUS™ 3100 Offers Firefighters the Ultimate Solution for Self and Victim Rescue

Dallas, TX (August 25, 2009) – The DEUS™ 3100 Vertical Rescue System is a revolutionary descent and rescue device. It provides a lightweight and pocket-sized design, hands-free operation and endless features. It's built with quadruple redundant braking systems for complete confidence and safety every time – from personal bailout to multiple victim rescues.

Firefighters and rescue professionals have used the DEUS 3100 extensively and sing the praises of the device's key features:

Hands-free operation: The DEUS 3100 operates hands-free in “stop” or “go” mode so you can safely descend or remain suspended with your hands free to work or carry items.

“The ease of use is great – just turn the knob to control the speed. Or, use it hands-free and speed is limited to about 9 feet per second for a soft landing.”

Lightweight yet Tough: The DEUS 3100 weighs just 0.9 kg (plus rope) and is small enough to fit in a gear pocket so it's ready to use when it's needed most.

“This thing is built firefighter-tough. We beat the crap out of our equipment and this is really built for firefighters.”

Versatile: The DEUS 3100 lets you switch between bailout or victim rescue without re-rigging.

“Light weight; small; functional; very easy to use. With this, you can get three people down from a fourth floor window in less than a minute.”

DEUS Rescue was established to meet the special demands of fire and rescue professionals. The DEUS 3100 was designed, with extensive input from rescuers, to allow a firefighter to bail out or rescue others from a height easily, safely and quickly.

DEUS Rescue offers a world of resources in personal rescue. The company's objective is to save lives by providing the absolute finest vertical rescue solutions in the world. That principle means that rescue professionals can count on DEUS, every moment, every time.
